SUMMER MEDICINE

Mr. J. F. Oerlet, Vienna, Va., says:

I have used it in my family for sixteen years, and found it even more than you claim for it in treating cases of chills or malarial fevers. I have known in several instances three doses to stop chills, and one member of our family was cured of Malarial Fever by it when given up to die by physicians. As a tonic, I consider it has no equal.

Spiro Powder 19c
Today and Saturday, 25c Size,

RELIEVES MIDSUMMER MISERY and does what no other toilet preparation will do. It positively destroys the odor of perspiration on the body, feet, dress shields, and clothing. It keeps you cool and gives an unequalled sense of personal cleanliness and comfort. When dusted under the arms after the bath and dusted on the garments when making a change, it PREVENTS all bodily odors.

Remember SPIRO POWDER is not a paste or liquid that necessitates the soiling of the hands or clothing when using. It is a fine, white, odorless powder that can be sprinkled on the undergarments, under the arms, and on the body and feet.

ADAIR HERO OF
CARRIZAL FIGHTFought Mexicans Single-handed
After Comrades Had
All Died.

By WALLACE E. SMITH.
El Paso, Tex., July 6.—Of the heroic little band of Americans who withstood the fight at Carrizal a few weeks ago, Lieut. Harry Adair stands out as the most spectacular, according to members of the party which brought the nine bodies of those killed back to the United States today.

"The Mexicans at Carrizal are still marveling at the bravery of those troops," said one of the party. "Especially have they unlimited praise for Lieut. Adair. A Mexican who saw the whole affair told me of Adair's end.

"He fought like a demon. All around him were his dead comrades. Ford had fallen with a bullet through his eye. But Lieut. Adair kept on. He had been shot in half a dozen places. There was blood across his face and over his arms. His blouse had been ripped off and he was bare to the waist.

"He was using his automatic like a machine gun, sweeping the Mexicans with it as they closed in. Finally the pistol was empty. Then he swung his arm and hurled the pistol in the faces of the Mexicans.

"One of his black troopers handed him another pistol. He shouted as he took it. The Mexicans in front of him began to break, and together with the trooper Adair began to shoot through them. When their pistols were emptied again they fought with their fists. But it was too magnificent to last.

"Then they reached the little irrigation ditch, and Adair had to order his trooper to leave him before the negro would obey. Adair died with his head in the water."

ORDWAY BEEF
LABELED 1913But Food Investigators Open a Can and Give It Their Approval.

Representatives Murray Hulbert and Walter M. Chandler, both from New York, with Alfred W. McCamm, of Boston, inspected the kitchens of Batteries A and B, D. C. N. G., at Camp Ordway yesterday to find out exactly what is the quality and quantity of the food served to the men.

This investigation was to obtain information with which to support a resolution calling for a Presidential commission to investigate food conditions at all militia camps which was added to the army bill by Senator Chamberlain late yesterday afternoon. The inspection trip was purely informal, and the Representatives and Mr. McCamm, who is a meat expert, talked over conditions with Capt. Wilson and Vort, of the batteries, and Capt. Washburn, of the cavalry troop.

The kitchen conditions were found excellent and no soldier who complained of the food could be found. The corned beef that is being given the men was found to be labeled November, 1913, but although three years old, upon opening a can, it was found to be in satisfactory condition.

"We are making this investigation so as to know the actual condition," said Representative Hulbert. "We want to prevent any recurrence of the food scandals of the Spanish-American war, and to be sure that these men are getting decent food to eat."

Several of the men called attention to the way in which employees of the navy yard who are in the militia are being treated with regards to pay, and both Representatives said that they would take the matter up with the Secretary of the Navy.

BAKER ORDERS RELEASE

yesterday afternoon, authorizing militia commanders to abolish many of the strict requirements for recruits.

Scores of men have been turned away from the local recruiting stations every day because of slight defects of the teeth or eyes. With these restrictions removed, the officers in charge at Camp Ordway feel confident that they will be able to fill up in no time the gaps left by the release of those married men who have large families dependent upon them.

"Secretary of War Baker's order will greatly simplify our work," said John Dolph, chairman of the Citizens' Welfare Association, organized last Monday to furnish relief to the families of Guardsmen.

"My, my, the troops will never get to the border with the married men striving to get out and the young men failing to enlist," said Mrs. William E. Harvey, wife of the commander of the District National Guard and vice president of the Guardsmen's Relief Association.

Will Solve Problem.
It is expected Secretary Baker's order will solve one of the most difficult problems presented by the mobilization of the militia. While it does not permit every married man to escape duty, it gives department commanders authority to relieve men whose homes have actually been broken up by the call to arms.

The officers at Camp Ordway last night were all in sympathy with the order. They contended that it is no more than right that married men be given exemption in as many cases as possible. They pointed out that in drafting, married men are never called until the supply of single men has been exhausted.

Only eighteen of the seventy-five members of the Signal Corps of the District National Guard, which is already en route to the border, are married, and all of them were given an opportunity to remain home, there being a surplus of unmarried applicants for admission to the Signal Corps. No estimate could be obtained at Camp Ordway last night of the number of married men in the First Separate Battalion of colored troops, which also is en route for the border.

Public Health Physicians
Fear Spread of Epidemic

"Nevertheless, Washington parents should take every precaution against the disease. The disease sprouts from germ that lurks in the nose, mouth and bowels of persons affected and of persons known as chronic carriers—individuals who bear the germs although themselves unaffected.

"The symptoms are numerous, and the appearance of the disease sometimes is very sudden. A child may be taken ill and die within forty-eight hours. The child may at first have merely a little fever, and then suddenly the disease makes its appearance.

Keep Children from Infection.

"As a preventive measure, children should be kept away from possible sources of infection. In case the child is stricken with the disease, the first step is to re-establish the nerve power by getting the muscles in good condition, through diet and exercise. If attempts to build up this nerve power are unsuccessful, a surgical operation is necessary. This operation consists of transplanting tendons so that other muscles will do the work of the paralyzed ones. The child must then be re-educated to use these transplanted muscles."

There have been but few cases of the disease in Washington in recent years. In 1915 there were only six cases, with two deaths. Last March two cases were reported, but the patients have recovered.

WOMAN AND GIRL LOST.

No Trace of Mrs. Jannie M. Ahern and Little Daughter.

The police have been unable to find any trace of Mrs. Jannie M. Ahern and her 3-year-old girl, who mysteriously disappeared from her home, 12 Fifth street northeast, June 28.

Mrs. Ahern, who is only 30 years old, went to Union Station last Wednesday to visit her husband, who is employed by the Washington Terminal Company. After conversing with Mr. Ahern for a short time, Mrs. Ahern left the station and has not since been seen.

Mrs. Ahern weighs about 115 pounds, has light complexion, hair, and eyes, and wore a white middle suit.

Hints for Preventing Infantile Paralysis

Don't let child mingle in crowds.

Don't let persons kiss and fondle child.

Don't let child use common drinking cups or towels.

Don't fail to summon doctor immediately if child becomes sick.

Don't fail to isolate child following symptoms.

Don't fail to destroy all mouth and nose secretions.

Don't fail to disinfect room of patient.

—Suggested by Dr. W. C. Rucker, Public Health Service.

Health Department officials stated yesterday it is unlikely that any inspection will be made of children coming into Washington from New York. The Public Health Service yesterday was notified of the outbreak of four cases in Cleveland.

Won't Have European Supplies.

Lincoln, Neb., July 6.—The acceptance of 3,000 pairs of shoes furnished the Nebraska National Guard by a St. Louis firm is being held up pending information as to whether they were manufactured for European armies. Blankets furnished the Nebraska guard are unsatisfactory.
